Left school and did a variety of jobs; from Archaeologist to Trawler fishing. Nearly studied archaeology, but after working on phase 2 habitat and invertebrate site register surveys on the Isle of Portland for the NCC, decided this was for him and went to get a degree in Ecology from UEA. Then worked in the Norwich Coypu Lab for a while, before working in land management back in Dorset for 15 years. Most of his experience has been in lowland heath and grassland habitats. He has worked back in the East of England for the last 10 years as an ecologist with the Forestry Commission where his experience has broadened into woodland ecology and forestry management.
