

Nicky Rowbottom

Nicky has worked in wildlife conservation education and interpretation for 25 years. She has edited 'News from the Ouse' the HLF-funded newsletter for the LOHP since 2010, and is a Trustee and volunteer with her local conservation group in Halesworth. Her connection with the Little Ouse - Waveney valleys started with the 9 years she worked as education manager for the Suffolk Wildlife Trust. She has a strong commitment to engaging more people - of all ages – in supporting conservation, and is constantly searching for effective ways to entertain and inspire. Working freelance gives her the privilege of working with a wide range of organisations on a great variety of projects from historic fishing boats to precious restored wetlands.
