

Sue Lawrence

Sue joined the LOHP shortly after moving to South Norfolk from London about five years ago after taking early retirement. She is a keen amateur ornithologist and is a trainee birder and has an interest in all aspects of natural history and conservation. She volunteers for Suffolk Wildlife Trust and British Trust for Ornithology as well as the LOHP in various wide ranging roles. The interpersonal and organisational skills she acquired in her previous careers as a Librarian and latterly a Dental Hygienist can be of use even in this very different field of work. Over a year ago she took over the role as Membership Secretary for the LOHP alongside her existing role as Minutes Secretary for the Trustees meetings. Most recently she has also joined the newly created Communications Group where she plays an active role in helping to organise LOHP events and walks for the general public and local residents to increase the LOHP's profile and its conservation work and also to increase awareness and knowledge of the flora and fauna of this unique landscape. She feels the aims and objectives of the LOHP are hugely important, and has admiration for everyone involved in the charity and for their expertise and dedication and the many hours given voluntarily and is proud to play a part in it.
